COMMENTARY

February 2024

The Net Asset Value of the CC Japan Income & Growth Trust rose by 6.4% in Sterling terms during February.

During the month the widely followed Nikkei 225 Index exceeded its 1989 high for the first time. This symbolic milestone has brought attention to the strong performance of Japanese equities to both domestic and international investors. However, the validity of this comparison is somewhat undermined by the structure of this index (it is price weighted) and the fact that over two thirds of the constituents have been replaced over the last 34 years. A more representative index and our preferred benchmark, Topix Total Return, also hit a new high of 4,502.5 on 27th February, 55.5% higher than its level on the day that the Nikkei peaked on 29th December 1989. The headlines, as exciting as they are, do not fully reflect the fact that Japanese equities have performed well for a number of years by generating an attractive combination of capital returns and progressive shareholder distribution.

The very different investment environment is the culmination of, amongst others, the many proposals of Abenomics reform programme and the more recent initiative from the Tokyo Stock Exchange to encourage companies to improve corporate value. The momentum behind these objectives is one reason for the strong performance of the equity market during, where an order issued by Japan's Financial Services Agency Authority to the non-life non-insurance industry to expedite the unwinding of strategic shareholdings adds further impetus. The existence of cross-shareholdings is a symbol of outdated practices in corporate Japan and, as they are reduced, we believe that there will be simultaneous improvement in capital efficiency.

Leading trading company and long term holding in the portfolio, Mitsubishi Corp, announced strong business results and an update to its cash management targets of its current Mid-Term Plan. This included the a new share buyback programme of up to Y500bn or 10% of its equity, demonstrating its commitment to improving asset efficiency and capital efficiency. The attractions of the improved corporate governance at this company over recent years has encouraged Berkshire Hathaway to become one of its largest shareholders. Their annual letter to investors highlights the opportunities they have found in the trading company sector and commends the companies for following "shareholder-friendly policies that are much superior to those customarily practiced in the US".<sup>(5)</sup> The fact that these companies apply "only about a third of earnings to dividends" retaining "sums to build their businesses and, to a lesser degree, to repurchase shares" has been a key attraction.<sup>(5)</sup> We believe that this general approach is increasingly common place across the Japanese equity market and this provides a foundation for further gains, despite 2023 being a strong year of returns.

KEY RISKS

Liquidity risk – The Fund may encounter difficulties in disposing of assets at their fair price due to adverse market conditions leading to limited liquidity.

Credit and counterparty risks – the Fund may be exposed to credit and counterparty risks in relation to the securities and counterparties it invests in and with whom it transacts.

Concentration risk – This Fund holds a limited number of investments. If one of these falls in value, it can have a greater impact on the Fund's value than if the Fund held a larger number of investments.

Currency risk – Investing in assets in a currency other than your own exposes the value of your investment to exchange rate fluctuations.

Derivatives – the Fund may use derivatives as investments or to manage the risk profile of the Fund. Their use may increase the risk of losses as well as enhance potential gains as compared to funds that do not use derivatives.

Emerging market risk – Investment in emerging markets may be considered speculative. Commonly legal and accounting regimes can offer less protection to investors than in developed markets.

Sustainability Risk - Environmental, social and governance events or conditions could occur that have an adverse impact on the value of the Fund's investments, either directly, or by contributing to the impact or materiality of other risks.

The Fund prospectus gives you further details about all the risks for this fund – see under “Important Information” for how to obtain a copy.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The Key Information Document and the latest prospectus of the Company are available on the Company's website:

www.ccjapanincomeandgrowthtrust.com.

All data as at 29.02.2024 unless stated otherwise. All information is sourced from Chikara unless stated otherwise.

This factsheet is to provide you summary information about the Company and should not be taken as advice or a recommendation to buy or sell its shares. If you are unsure of the suitability of this product for your investment needs, please contact a financial adviser.

The value of the Company's ordinary and subscription shares will fluctuate. The price of the ordinary shares in the Company is determined by market supply and demand. The price of the ordinary shares may be different to the net assets of the Company.

The Company may enter into long only contracts for difference or equity swaps for gearing and efficient portfolio management purposes. It may also use borrowing to seek to enhance investment returns. This will exaggerate market movements both up and down. Generally gearing, through borrowings and/or entering into long only contracts for difference or equity swaps, will not exceed the net asset value by more than 20% at the time of drawdown of the relevant borrowings or entering into the relevant transaction, as appropriate. Where the Company utilises such instruments, it is likely to take a credit risk with regard to the parties with whom it trades and may also bear the risk of settlement default.
